

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

Since Indonesia is a developing country, learning foreign languages is a necessity for Indonesian citizens. Therefore, the numbers of people who are interested in learning foreign languages are increasing, especially in learning English. English as an international language has important roles to the Indonesia education development. In order to make the citizens easier to learn English, Indonesian government provides non-formal institutions focusing in English learning especially for children. One of them is Pusat Bahasa, Universitas Airlangga.

Pusat Bahasa, Universitas Airlangga is an excellent language center under the auspice of Faculty of Humanities, Airlangga University. This course concerns to provide excellent services in language courses and trainings in a communicative and fun atmosphere. Pusat Bahasa Universitas Airlangga can be used for the Universitas Airlangga students and also for public.

The writer did the internship as an English teacher at Pusat Bahasa, Universitas Airlangga. She focused on teaching young learners. Having the opportunity to do the internship there gave the writer much knowledge and new experiences. During the internship, the writer learned how to be a good teacher and the tasks done everyday. A young learner English teacher has to be able to Speak in front of the class, give the clear instruction to the students, give some games which support the lesson, and attract the students to have spirit to learn. The writer also got much information about Pusat Bahasa, Universitas Airlangga that she did not know before.

Due to the English skills and interest in teaching could be applied during the internship, the writer felt happy to have an opportunity to do the internship as an English teacher at Pusat Bahasa, Universitas Airlangga. The writer believes all experiences and knowledge she gained during the internship can be very useful for the future.
